THE BEST OUTGOING STUDENT

Grade XII 2022-2023

Ms. A S Divya Vikasini of Grade XII Batch year 2022-2023 stands tall among her peers both in academics, discipline and co academics. She was there in all spheres of school events taking active part in all of them. She wants to pursue IAS Civil service as her career. We are happy to announce her as THE BEST OUTGOING STUDENT of Gr XII batch 2022-23. Congratulations to her and her parents. We wish her well to achieve greater laurels in her higher studies, career and life.

BE RESPONSIBLE

A great leader communicates to people their worth and potential so clearly that they are inspired to see it in themselves. The ability to become such a leader is a choice that any person can make; any student, parent or grandparent, any teacher, any coach, any co-worker, and any friend.

"How many of us had someone in our lives that communicated our worth and potential so clearly that it profoundly influenced our lives?" Infact all of us have someone: a parent, a coach, a teacher, a formal leader, a friend, a neighbor, or a relative who really became very close to us and communicated their worth and potential. These experiences are always inspiring.

There is indeed a formula for becoming such a leader. They are what we call the four imperatives of leadership.

The first is to inspire trust. You build relationships of trust through both your character and competence and you also extend trust to others. You show others that you believe in their capacity to live up to certain expectations, to deliver on promises, and to achieve clarity on key goals. You don't inspire trust by micromanaging and second guessing every step people make.

The second is to clarify purpose. Great leaders involve their people in the communication process to create the goals to be achieved. If people are involved in the process, they psychologically own it and you create a situation where people are on the same page about what is really important—mission, vision, values, and goals.

The third is to align systems. This means that you don't allow there to be conflict between what you say and what you measure. For instance, many times organizations claim that people are important but in fact the structures and systems, including accounting, make them an expense or cost center rather than an asset and the most significant resource. So also with individuals; they say one thing and do something else. There is no integrity of purpose.

BE THE LEADER

The fourth is the fruit of the other three—unleashed talent. When you inspire trust and share a common purpose with aligned systems, you empower people. Their talent is unleashed so that their capacity, their intelligence, their creativity, and their resourcefulness is utilized.

These are based upon principles that build upon each other rather than techniques or steps that have to be taken independent of each other. These aren't "management tricks" but real principles that guide a true leader's character.

The world is vastly different today and ever-changing. If we can develop leaders who can withstand and embrace the changing times by deeply rooting themselves in these principles of great leadership, then we can develop great people, great teams, great schools, great teachers, great students, great families, great parents, great children and great results.

All these four pillars stand on the pedestal of Responsibility, the responsibility to first take charge of our lives before we take care of those in our care, our family members, our colleagues, our friends, peers and our students.

The responsibility that we are talking about is a very insightful word. It means respect and love for self as well as others; it means trust and trust worthiness; it means not only competence, but also character; it does not dwell on quick-fix solutions; but on paradigm-shifting changes in life; it is rather transformational than transactional; it is integrity practised at its full potential.

So we have made

BE RESPONSIBLE. BE THE LEADER

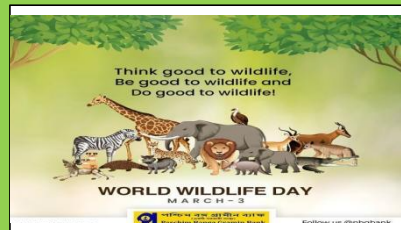

the new tagline, slogan and theme for our school this academic year 2023-2024. Let us stand by this principle and be responsible in all our thoughts, words and deeds and be the leaders by example.
