Independence -
Some Snapshots

Why should I run the Race of my life.

"Long years ago we made a tryst with destiny, and now the time comes when we shall redeem our pledge, not wholly or in full measure, but very substantially.

At the stroke of midnight hour, when the world sleeps, India will awake to life and freedom.

A moment comes which comes but rarely in history, when we step out from the old to the new, then an age ends, and when the soul of a nation, long suppressed, finds utterance.

It is fitting that at this solemn moment we take the pledge of dedication to India and her people and to the still larger cause of humanity.

At the dawn of history India started on her unending quest, and trackless centuries are filled with her striving and the grandeur of her successes and her failures.

Through good and ill fortune alike she has never lost sight of that quest or forgotten the ideals which gave her strength.

We end today a period of ill fortune and India discovers herself again.

The achievement we celebrate today is, but a step, an opening of opportunity, to the greater triumphs and achievements that await us.

Are we brave enough and wise enough to grasp this opportunity and accept the challenge of the future?

Freedom and power bring responsibility.

That responsibility rests upon this assembly, a sovereign body representing the sovereign people of India.

Before the birth of freedom we have endured all the pains of labour and our hearts are heavy with the memory of this sorrow.

Some of those pains continue even now. Nevertheless, the past is over and it is the future that beckons to us now.

That future is not one of ease or resting but of incessant striving so that we might fulfill the pledges we have so often taken and the one we shall take today.

The service of India means, the service of the millions who suffer. It means the ending of poverty and ignorance and disease and inequality of opportunity.

The ambition of the greatest man of our generation has been to wipe every tear from every eye.

That may be beyond us, but so long as there are tears and suffering, so long our work will not be over.

And so we have to labor and to work, and work hard, to give reality to our dreams. Those dreams are for India, but they are also for the world, for all the nations and peoples are too closely knit together today for any one of them to imagine that it can live apart.

Peace has been said to be indivisible, so is freedom, so is prosperity now, and so also is disaster in this one world that can no longer be split into isolated fragments.

To the people of India, whose representatives we are, we make appeal to join us with faith and confidence in this great adventure.

This is no time for petty and destructive criticism, no time for ill-will or blaming others.

We have to build the noble mansion of free India where all her children may dwell."

Pundit Jawaharlal Nehru our First Prime Minister's historic FREEDOM SPEECH on the midnight leading to 15th August 1947 to the members of the Constituent Assembly and to the Nation.

Freedom is my birthright. I must have it.

8 STEPS TO ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

By Ms. Soorya Geetha

Step 1: Set Goals

Goals help to keep you going by:
Providing direction.

Increasing your attention and focus

Increasing your motivation and effort.

Reducing your anxiety and increasing your confidence.

Develop SMART goals that are: Specific, Measureable, Achievable, Realistic, and Timely.

Step 2: Have a Positive Attitude.

Be positive about your ability to succeed.

Look forward to what you will learn.

Have an inquiring mind: get curious about your subjects!

Step 3: Manage Your Time

Set a realistic schedule for yourself.

Know where your time goes (awareness is key).

Study for 2-3 hours for every hour of class time (eg. if you have 6 hours of class per week, aim to study at least 12-18 hours per week).

Step 4: Read Textbooks & Course Readings

Survey chapters before reading; read the chapter summary, look for bold and italicized words to indicate important concepts.

Review chapters and readings before class.

Re-read chapter and readings after class.

Make study notes.

Step 5: Attend your Lectures

Intend to learn something each class you attend.

Do assigned readings before class- you'll take better notes.

Ask questions: this will enhance your learning process.

Sit in the first few rows - you'll pay closer attention.

Step 6: Record your Lecture Notes

Take notes in class.

Review and edit notes after class (within 24 hours).

Aim for 3-4 major reviews of your notes before exams.

Highlight import points, draw diagrams, make definitions.

Step 7: Prepare for Exams

Review past exams.

Make practice study questions.

Memorize definitions and formulae - try cue cards.

Know the type of exam to expect. Eat balanced meals and sleep 8 hours per night.

Step 7: Prepare for Exams

Review past exams.

Make practice study questions.

Memorize definitions and formulae - try cue cards.

Know the type of exam to expect.

Step 8: Write Your Exams

Have a positive attitude; do your best.

Arrive early with an extra pen and any necessary supplies.

Read test questions and instructions very clearly.

Budget your time; leave time for review.

Relax and don't forget to breathe.

AUGUST AUTHOR-ENID BLYTON

Enid Blyton (11 August 1897 – 28 November 1968) was the most successful children's writer of her generation. A prolific writer, she completed over 400 books during her life time. She is in the top 10 all-time bestseller lists her books – having sold over 600 million copies.

She took Froebel training and became a governess to a family of boys in Surrey and this experience encouraged her to set up a school for boys.

In her spare time, she began writing a variety of children's stories. These ranged from natural botany books, biblical stories, a simplified version of Pilgrim's Promise, to the Famous Five series and the ubiquitous Noddy and Big Ears stories. In 1924, she married her first husband – H.A. Pollock with whom she had two daughters.

She married her second husband Kenneth Waters in 1943.

Her first stories were published by George Newness and her fame grew through the popularity of her stories in the children's magazine 'Sunny Stories.'

Her books were controversial amongst literary critics and librarians. Her writings were often not seen as 'great literature' Some found the likes of Big Ears and Noddy just too childish. In recent decades, the books have also been criticised for racist, sexist and xenophobic stereotypes.

Yet, whilst the works of Enid Blyton might not have touched the heights of literature – and may compare unfavourably to the more 'adult' success of J.K. Rowling, her books were undoubtedly very popular amongst her core audience and did help a generation of children become interested in reading.

The Idea of Satyagraha

- The idea of satyagraha emphasised the power of truth and the need to search for truth.
- It suggested that if the cause was true, if the struggle was against injustice, then physical force was not necessary to fight the oppressor.
- Without seeking vengeance or being aggressive, a satyagrahi could win the battle through non-violence.
- This could be done by appealing to the conscience of the oppressor.
- By this struggle, truth was bound to ultimately triumph.

Whatever you do will be insignificant, but it is very important that you do it
— Mahatma Gandhi

THE MAKING OF INDIA'S CONSTITUTION

- Twenty-five days after it started, the non-violent march ended on April 5, 1930, at the small coastal town of Dandi. The following day, Gandhi set out to the seashore, picked up a lump of salt, and declared, "With this, I am shaking the foundations of the British Empire."
- This was a major but peaceful challenge against Britain colony. This move enraged the British and called for his arrest.
- The British then came to the beach and beat Gandhi and anyone with him, but the Indians didn't fight back. They kept on coming and British government kept on beating them. This continued the whole day. They stood there, to prove their point.

I need to achieve. But again why you want these things to happen. Because that will finally make you happier and you feel you are on top of the world. This motivates you to run for that one moment. But for that one moment we need to work and toil every moment for years.

Its like putting yourself in a frying pan for hours together. The painful process and the sleepless nights result in one moment when you reap the harvest of your tireless efforts. For example I study very hard and secure 100 marks. For the pain of working consistently very hard I enjoy the happiness of success for a moment. Then I have another goal and a vision and my journey continues to achieve that end. I continue to work hard even harder than before to enjoy greater happiness at a later day,

Why should I run the race of my life?

Instead of the above scenario, I could have enjoyed with watching TV, indulging in Social media and gossip, wasting my time in unwanted addictions and I could have been happier every moment of my life. But is that real happiness? Or is it only illusionary? Which one is the right thing to do?

Since I chose the right thing to toil now and reap the result of 100 percent I was able to enjoy real happiness for sometime and put me on the path of more hard work which will bring more happiness.

Its not only for you that you run everyday but also for others who will benefit by you. The bus driver drives not only for his livelihood. He also drives for his passengers to reach their respective destinations. Every vehicle has its own capacity and purpose. A train has to run on the rails to take the passengers to distant places. An aeroplane flies and takes the passengers to different countries. A ship navigates through the oceans and reaches the great shores and ports of the world carrying people and cargo.

Similarly each one of us is unique and is born to run the race of life to serve a purpose which may be small or big, according to the efforts put forth and capabilities acquired. Our destinies may be different. But we complement one another with our different capabilities. We are not mediocre, We attain and give out our best. Let us love ourselves first And also we love others too. We help our selves.

Ms. Dhivya Vikashini

Gr. XII IAS Aspirant

We also help others. Any food cooked need to be served. So also our potential needs to be served. Running water is pure, simple and serves everybody.

Be like the running water. Your acquired potential can strengthen a whole lot of people. Be the sunshine in some one's life. Be the warmth when it is cold and be the chill when it is hot. It might be painful to make the right and quality decisions as you run your race of life, but in the end you will be leaving a legacy and foot prints on the sands of time for others to emulate and follow.

We all have a tight monotonous routine. The clock starts ticking fast from the moment we wake up. We all work hard each and every second. Have you ever questioned yourselves why we should be running the races of our lives? Well I am sure I would get this cliched answer. , I do this because I want to make myself proud? I want to stand out among the crowd.

Hellow KMRIANS,

Sometimes in the race of life, there would be moments when your feet tremble and you hit hard on the ground. People will stamp over you and try to trip you over to win their races. It is at that time that you have to use your will power and mental strength show them that with hardwork, determination and commitment, you will be able to win your race against all odds. Then you will be hailed as true winner.
